Your car number plate can tell what type of driver you are

Car owners pay a king's ransom just to secure that special set of numbers for their car. Esther Teh shares some interesting insights on numerology.

Numerology is the study of numbers and their meanings and when applied to life can enhance the quality of the time you spend on Earth. It gives you insights into your future, sort of like a weather forecast. It can show you the challenges ahead of you and the things you have going for you, so that you can plan ahead!

Popular numerology methods include Pythagorean, Verdic and Chaldean. No one method is better than the other I use Chaldean Numerology as it compliments Astrology.

In Numerology, we look at numbers 1 to 9. Any number above 9, is added up and reduced to a single digit. Below are the individual numbers and their interpretations, in relation to vehicles.

If you drive a vehicle with the numbers 2, 4 or 8 in the license plate – either singly or collectively, know that it makes you an aggressive driver so go easy on the accelerator. Similarly, when you are on the roads and you see a vehicle with the numbers 2, 4 or 8 (again, either singly or collectively in one license plate), watch out for what seems like drunken driving - give it a wide berth.

So why then, do folks bid for the all-time favorite “8” on a car? The number 8 is about power, ego, and money. Numbers can be applied in many ways to help you achieve your goals but when applied in a “wrong” way, it can be quite dangerous.

The single digit 8 on a car, makes for a dangerous driver – even if the driver is known to be the softest and sweetest thing on planet Earth!

Triple 8 makes for an even more dangerous driver but yet still somewhat “acceptable” as the number totals “24”, which when further reduced is a “6” (2 + 4). (Read on for an explanation on the number “6”)

Four 8’s in a license plate would bring the total to a “32”, which further adds up to a “5” – be careful that your ego does not take you down a path of low morals.

If you happen to be born on the 4th, 13th, 22nd or 31st of the calendar month, do try to avoid having the number 8 in the license plate of your vehicle, as well as avoiding the total sum of 8.

Wearing a piece of kunzite gemstone or diamond, would help calm you down and make you an easier and better driver. Make it a point to remember not to hog the road. Don’t swerve from left lane to right lane and back in 2 seconds flat! Oh, and remember to load up on vehicular insurance – you will need it! ■

NUMBERS and Cars

The following is an explanation of the effect numbers has on vehicles, in total sum of all the digits on the license plate.

Number One

You yearn for freedom and if you are not getting that freedom to express yourself in other areas of your life, and if you happen to be driving a car with a license plate that totals up to a “1”, you may be getting yourself into trouble when you rev the engine getting ready for a “race” (men and their egos!).

Numbers Two, Four and Eight

As explained above.

Number Three

Well! You certainly will be busy zipping around and perhaps even having lots of fun! Remember to get sufficient rest or you will be dangerous on the roads.

Number Five

For the swinging bachelor or bachelorette who wants a good time with no strings attached, this is the number for you. Whilst this sounds like loads of entertaining fun, it also brings with it an element of danger via uncontrollable events.

Number Six

For the one who is single and looking to get hitched, try to go for a license plate that has 3 or 6, OR where the license plate totals “6”. The number 6, is a number of love – it will help attract romance.

Number Seven

If the digits on your vehicular license plate total up to a “7”, take extra care in maintaining your car or you can look forward to multiple agonising trips to the mechanic’s workshop! Another form of manifestation would be annoying things like having your vehicle scratched, or the tyres consistently getting punctured.

Number Nine

Assertive driver you may be, but you actually lack confidence – and this may show when it comes to trying to park a big car in a small space (you would be slower in negotiating the moves and turns).

As with all things in life, one must never only look at the total sum – one “should” in fact look at the complete and in-depth analysis.
